DEACON ROBERT WHITE, SR.

Deacon Robert White, Sr. is a Washingtonian; he is a husband, a father and a grandfather. He holds a BS in theology from Hartford University and has continued his education at the Washington Theological Union.

Deacon White serves the Church of Washington, and was ordained in 1997 by the late Archbishop of Washington James Cardinal Hickey. He was assigned to St. Augustine Church, "the Mother Church of African American Catholics" in nation's capital, where he served from his ordination in 1997 until 2006. Deacon White was then assigned in June 2006 to St. Martin of Tours, in N.W. Washington, where the Spirit and love for God and God's people are alive and overflowing. Deacon White is also a member of the Master Ceremonies Corp, where he assists the Bishops of Washington in Episcopal liturgies throughout the Archdiocese. His primary parish ministry is family Baptismal Preparation and Children's Liturgy.

Deacon White has taught a course in liturgy in The Archdiocesan Education for Parish Service (EPS) program, and he is the Parish Chairperson of the Welcome Home Ministry, which mentors ex-offenders, in their walk in reclaiming life in the community. Deacon White has a Preaching ministry that has taken him across the country, and he is involved in retreat direction, for adults and youth. Deacon White is the past secretary for the National Association African American Catholic Deacons. Deacon White has a love for sharing God's Word; his motto is "Look What God Can Do".
